Introduction - - - - -

Oh Flower of Scot -
The hills are bare Those days are past land now when will we see your like a - gain That now and Au- tumn leaves lie thick and still O'er now and in the past they must re- main But fo - ught and died for Your wee bit hill and glen, And land that is lost now Which those so dear- ly held And we can still rise now And be the na- tion a- gain That stood a - gainst him proud Ed - ward's ar - my, and sent him home - ward, tae think a - gain.
